Latest News

Baselines for the framework development of co-creation

As a result of collaboration among partners responsible for hackathons and codesign activities, it was gathered ideas regarding the types of hackathons required for the initial phase of testing e-DIPLOMA software solutions. Additionally, first guidelines for coordinating codesign workshops are also included.

Review of e-learning ecosystems

The aim of this review was to improve our understanding at a European level of how well educational institutions can use disruptive technologies for practical, hands-on learning. The report was built on analysing recent research papers on using disruptive technologies for hands-on learning and on conducting workshops to identify values related to potential learning scenarios with disruptive technologies.
